

Data Privacy

1. cellity uses the data the customer provides (e.g. form of address, name, address, email address, telephone number, telefax number, bank account, credit card data) according to the provisions of the German Data Protection Act.
2. The customer's personal data are exclusively used for the execution of the contracts concluded between the parties, e.g. for accounting purposes.
3. cellity stores connection data (e.g. start and end of the respective connection according to date and time and, in case the fees depend on it, the transferred amounts of data, Section 96 para. 1 of the German Telecommunications Act (TKG)), which are processed in order to create itemized bills relating to the use of certain offers on the customer's request, no longer than six months after sending the invoice. In case the customer raises objections to the amount of the invoiced connection fees before expiration of the 6 month period, the connection data are allowed to be stored until the objections will be finally settled.
4. All personal data of the customer, which are transmitted to cellity, are not made available to third parties without the written consent of the customer, unless this is required by legal or regulatory authority.
5. After the complete execution of the contract, the customer's data, which are to be stored for legal reasons, will be blocked. These data will not be available any more for further processing. Furthermore, these personal data will be deleted unless the customer explicitly agreed with the further processing and use of his data. This consent can be revoked at any time.
6. cellity uses technologies made available by third parties in order to supply websites on which we place advertisements. These technologies use information concerning your visits of this websites and the websites on which we place advertisements to supply you with advertisements (the information does not contain your name, address, or other personal data). An individual cookie can be placed or used on your browser during the supply procedure. Additionally, we can use so-called web-beacons, which are provided by our web advertisement partner, to be able to better manage our online advertisement. Such web beacons allow our servers to recognize a cookie as soon as a browser visits our website and to determine which advertisement led the browser to our website. The information thus collected cannot result in the identification of personal data. For more information about our advertisement partner and possibilities to exclude yourself from the data collection, please click the following link: <http://www.doubleclick.net/us/corporate/privacy>.

In case you desire further information or the deletion of the customer data, our support is at your disposal at en-support@cellity.com.